In The Name of Allah

...He Was Playing...

By:

The Protected By Allah

"Game over" This is the sentence that appeared to Mazen every quarter of an hour when he lost a level, but Mazen did not give up, he was confident that he was able to achieve his dream and finish the game with all its levels, defeat the adverse monsters and win the golden cup, so Mazen continued to play day and night Whenever he had the opportunity!..Finally, that awaited moment came; Mazen fulfilled his hope and saw success with his own eyes (he saw it a reality), joy filled him, he wanted to spread his happiness to everyone and be proud of his achievement, which he considers great!

I am going to victory, that will be the best achievement in my life!

Mazen hurried to his parents telling them the good news, but the surprise was when Mazen's parents did not care about the news, but instead blamed him for wasting his time. At school, Mazen spoke enthusiastically with his friends, but some of his friends cared, while others ignored him or shook their heads at him. Mazen could not remain silent, so he and his best friend Hamed started whispering when they found the teacher next to them staring at them sharply, then quickly punished them for talking about a silly game during the lesson!

What an achievement
causes me insult

This is not an achievement!

Mazen returned home with sadness on his face.. One thing was going through his mind (mind): This is not an achievement.. This is not an achievement!.. He sat with his eyes talking; They say: "I will make an achievement that will shake the world around me... you will see!"

Several years later, Mazen graduated from high school carrying the same old dream. This hardworking student got high marks, and earned the certificate deservedly!

Praise be to Allah, who raised me with knowledge to the highest degrees!

I will make the certificate my stair to great achievements!

Mazen hung the certificate on the wall of his home so that his father and mother could be proud of it, and when he gave a speech at the graduation ceremony that was held by the school and all his relatives and acquaintances congratulated him, he thought that he had become an important person and that he had achieved a great achievement in life, but one day when he passed through the neighborhood he found some boys beating a fat boy, he tried to defend him, but none of the naughty cared about him or responded to him. At that time, Mazen felt that he was an unimportant person, so he was deeply saddened and angry, so he made his decision to make himself a great person!

Several years later, Mazen graduated from the College of Business Administration, which he loved, he aspired to be an important businessman, but he was also proud of the result he had achieved in the sports club to which he was registered to since that time. ; No one ignores him anymore as those boys did in the past, Mazen now thinks that he has achieved his goal (his desire) and is able to shake the world around him!

Yes..Be like this.
Without problems!

Watch out!
It's Mazen!

They say that they want a bigger house and car too!

Reject me?!

Mom, Forget about the engagement..I will not marry until I am rich

Since Mazen has reached the age of men, he decided to get married, so he asked his mother to betroth him to a woman of good faith and morals, but the shocking surprise was when his mother told him that the bride's family refused him because he did not have enough money. At that moment, the man felt very angry and realized that he did not become the great person he had dreamed of; That important person that everyone respects and wishes to get close to, so he mustered his will and rolled up the sleeves of hardworking and diligence to achieve his dream that has not yet been achieved!

It took years that Mazen spent training, persistence, and practice, until Allah made him a prominent and famous businessman, money began to flow into his safe like a torrent, and then he married a woman more beautiful than the one whose family rejected him, afterward Allah bestowed upon them with good children, Mazen became a father who loves his children and enjoys them with his money and his good deeds.. He felt happy, he thought that he had achieved his desired dream, especially since all people wanted to please him and get close to him!

Everybody wants to draw closer to Mazen to earn money through him..
This Hamed didn't contact Mazen but when he knew that he had become rich!

One day, Mazen's daughter came back from school crying and said to her father with a faded face: "Father, is it true that the rich are the last to enter Paradise because their account is difficult and long?...Father, I love you, I want you to enter Paradise with us!" Mazen remained silent and no longer knew an answer. He broke into a sweat when he saw the tears of his daughter crying for him; Unfortunately, he was preoccupied with collecting money far from his religion, so he nether memorized the hadiths of the Messenger of Allah, PBUH, nor knew about them, so he began to think: "For many years I have been doing the impossible in order to possess every dignity so that I will never feel embarrassed.. Well, it seems that the story of my struggle (My fight) in life is not over!"

Once again, Mazen decided to prepare himself for a greater rank and a more honorable honor, so he embarked on a new field that he had never entered before. He wanted to be a millionaire of good deeds, to be crowned in Paradise as a happy king and lives in bliss that the kings of the world have not tasted, as they are deprived of the happiness of being close to Allah and living in His pleasure, may He be exalted!!

You will donate all this amount to orphanages?!.. This amount can make me rich!
I mean you will lose a large rate
of your capital!

"There is no shortage of money from charity", my friend. The Messenger of Allah said: "Me and the sponsor of the orphan are like these two"!

With this money,
I am buying my closeness to the Messenger of Allah, and it is, as you know, dearer to me than that you become rich!

Mazen became skilled in the job of the rich, which is distributing money to the poor, it became his preoccupation and his main work. Allah The Generous bestows upon him money and he distributes it generously (loving giving) hoping for acceptance from Allah and enjoying this privilege which is not available to many people. For example, once he was walking in avenues when he noticed the thrown garbage here and there, they got uncivilized appearance, so he announced a competition and specified a prize for the house that sorts the most garbage and hands it over to the recycling company in every neighborhood in this area. Everyone hurried to win the competition in greed for money, but the result was amazing. With time, families got used to the neatness and began to seek cleanliness themselves, even without competition !

Who can believe that our city contains such uncivilized scenes?!

If anyone has to do something, it's me!!

I will not be silent..

I will not ignore, but rather I will shake the neighborhood around me!

Whenever Mazen hears about a problem in society, he spends (offers) his money to solve it by encouraging people to do good.. Once Mazen heard about people's bad morals, he thought carefully, then announced competitions in schools that would offer a valuable prize for the best moral student in every school. Many students were happy and greedy for the award, they competed to get it, and within a short period of time, Mazen received a lot of thanks from many school managers who expressed (showed) their gratitude (thanks) to him, as the students' morals improved and the problems between them clearly decreased!

We do not forget what Mazen did when he learned of poor people who live with well-off neighbors (they have an increase in money), and yet these neighbors do not give charity and do not help their poor neighbors at all, as if they do not see them and do not know their misery, so angry seized Mazen, he decided to teach them a lesson and make them get used to give charity, so he thought of a trick, then he asked his assistant and friend Hamid to give charity to these poor people in front of the people, the next day the residents of the neighborhood were talking about the news of the reward that Hamid received because of his charity yesterday!

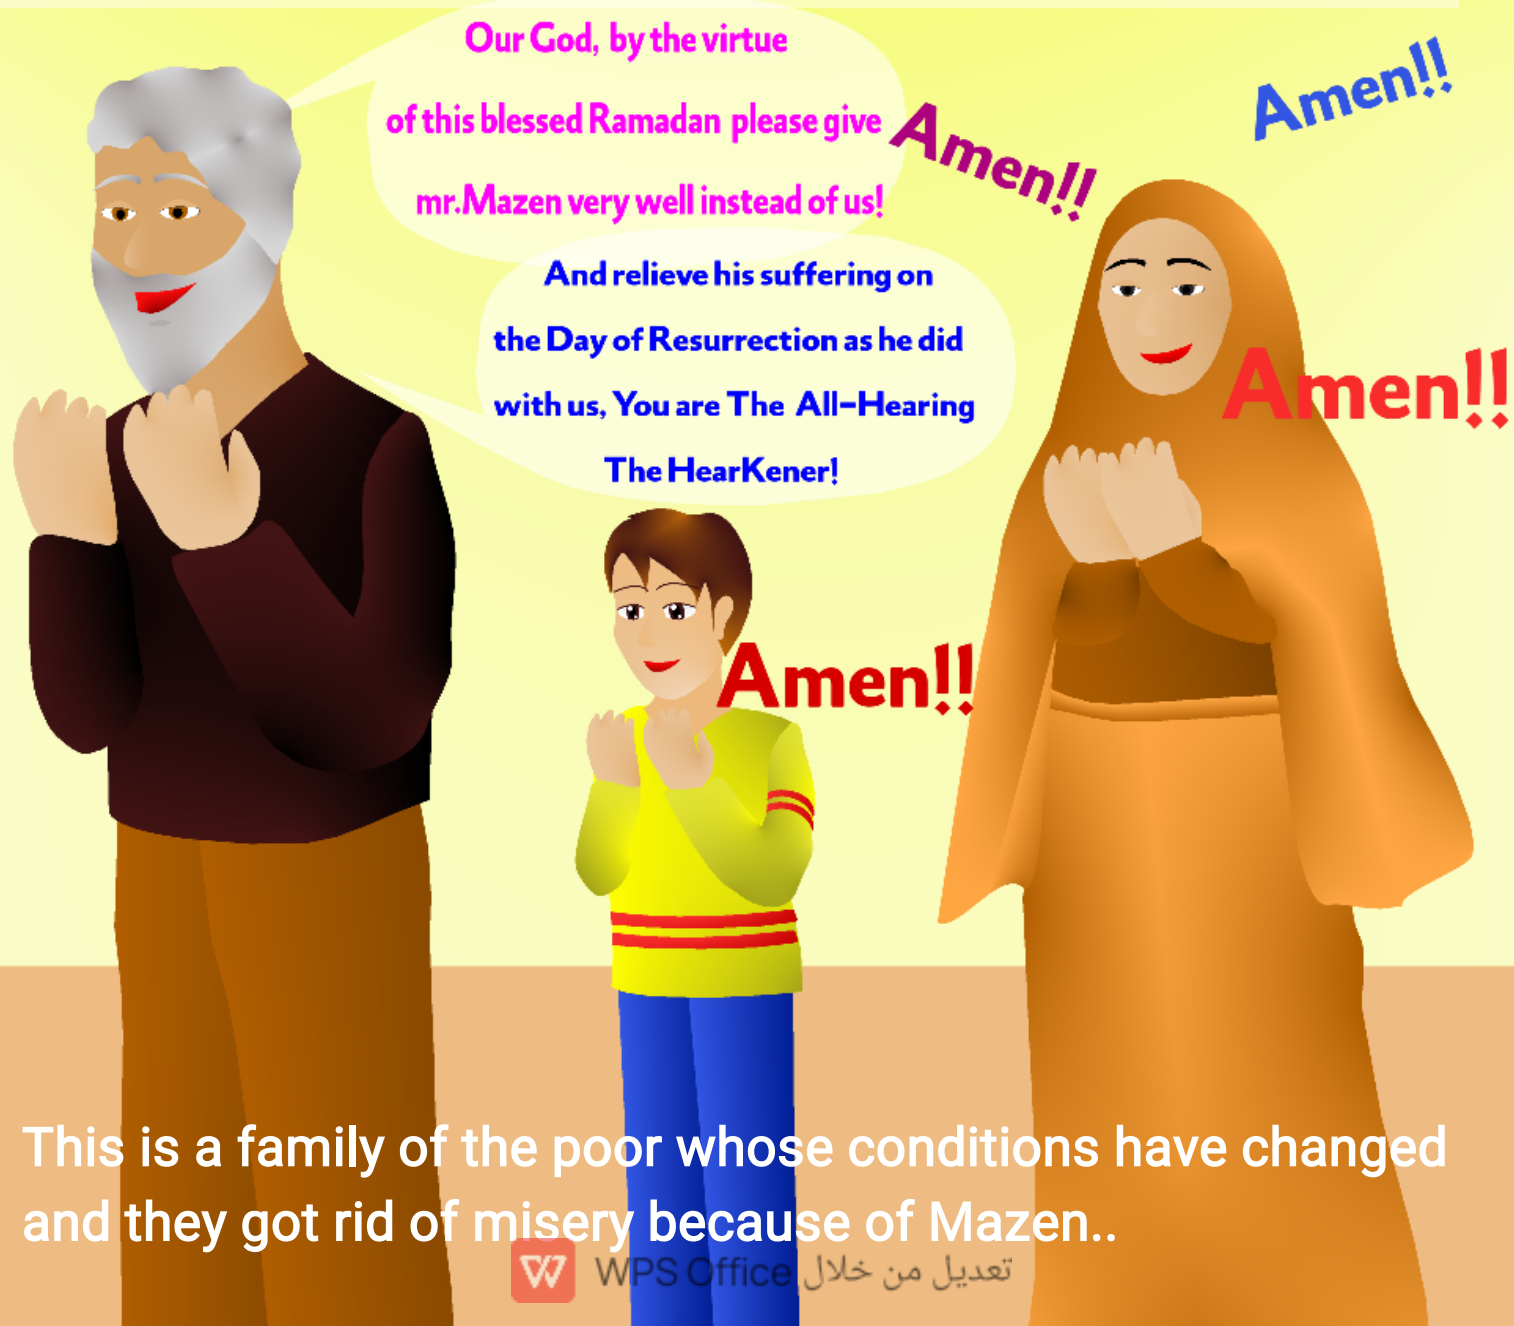

Is it possible that they don't help their neighbors?!
What bad morals! Don't they fear Allah?!
Where is the humanism?!
Where is loving to do good?

I won't still silent for them,

I'll give them a lesson!

After two days, Mazen sent another man to give charity to some of the poor. Again, people informed about the reward that the giver of charity, so greedy shone in their eyes, a lot of them hurried to give their money as charity hoping that Mazen would know about them and reward them. Within a day, Destiny smiled at many of the poor; Allah saved them from misery with Mazen's trick, they turned into rich people overnight. Mazen rewarded those who gave charity with a large amount only. As for the others, they understood the humanitarian message of Mazen, they realized that Mazen's trick defeated them and defeated their selfishness!!

This is a family of the poor whose conditions have changed and they got rid of misery because of Mazen..

Thus, on the ladder of goodness, Mazen continued to climb throughout his life, taking advantage of what Allah gave him of goodness and money to get closer to Allah and do good to people. As he did good to people, Allah did good to him; his company got more flourishing, his benefits increased, so he lived a good life being kind with his elderly mother, loving his wife and children and supporting of knowledge and scholars!!!

... Done by the grace of Almighty Allah...
